New York, October 1901.

DEAR SIR:

Before issuing your Seed Catalogue for Spring Trade, I would call your attention to the superiority of Van Namen's Excelsior Holland Dutch Cabbage Seed, introduced by me in 1895, and highly recommended by growers and seedsmen, as per testimonials given herewith. Owing to unfavorable weather conditions in Europe, the supply will not meet the demand, and it will be to the interest of prospective buyers to place orders at once; if possible, not later than October 25th. All orders will be accepted subject to seeds being unsold, and to possible advance in prices after November 1st next.

TERMS OF SALE.—To buyers of approved credit, one-third on delivery of seeds to prepay duties and cost of importation, freight, etc.; balance payable 30 days after date of invoice, unless special arrangements are otherwise made. Correspondents unknown to me are requested to forward one-third with the order; balance to be paid C. O. D. I call your attention to the testimonials from growers and seedsmen.

NON-WARRANTY.—I wish it to be distinctly understood, that although I continue to take all possible pains to supply only new, genuine and unadulterated seeds, plants and bulbs, I will give no warranty, express or implied, as to description, quality, productiveness, or any other matter of any of the seeds, plants or bulbs I send out, and will not be in any way responsible for the crop. Every order received for seeds, bulbs or plants will be executed on these conditions only.

C. H. JOOSTEN.

reports Concerning Van Namen's Holland Dutch Cabbage Seeds, Late, Large, Round Solid White Heads.

From JACOB WRIDE, Market Gardener, Auburn, N. Y.

The best I ever raised; average weight, 12-18 and often 25 lbs.; quality of the best; will raise no other.

Extract from catalogue of Messrs. A. F. & F. Bray, Pawtucket, R. I.

Mr. Anthony Perry says of this Cabbage: "The best I ever had." Grows quick, sure to head, large size, and of very fine flavor.

From THOS. J. GREY & CO., Seedsmen, Boston.

The people grow and use it. I feel confident that it will do a large business in this market.

From the VAIL SEED CO., Indianapolis.

Our best gardeners pronounce Van Namen's White late, large round Cabbage Seed par excellence. The heads are large and not affected by drought; leaves grow close, making solid and well-matured heads. More solid than any Cabbage we have on the market and give universal satisfaction.

From Mr. C. L. ALLEN, the well-known Seed Grower of Floral Park, N. Y.

Very valuable as a shipping variety. The solidity of its round heads and snowy whiteness make it particularly attractive as a market variety.

From Mr. H. N. BLAIR, Skaneateles, N. Y.

We sowed one pound of Van Namen's Holland Dutch White late Cabbage Seed, and the crop will bring about $250.00. It grows the largest, hardest and most matured heads of any seed I have yet seen, some weighing 21 lbs. after being trimmed for the market.

From HENRY A. GAEDE, Marlborough, N. Y.

The most remunerative variety to grow; a sure header, good size, firm, of excellent flavor.

From GEO. E. GOWEN, Stratham, N. H.

The Cabbages bring a good price; they are fine keepers.

Concerning Van Namen's Excelsior Mammoth Autumn Snow-white Cauliflower, Mr. H. W. Gardiner, Seedsman at Troy, N. Y., under date of Oct. 25, 1899, writes:—"This Seed produced the largest head we have ever seen. I send you sample weighing 9 1/2 pounds, measuring 37 inches in circumference and 19 inches over the top. It is not only large, but very white, compact, firm and uniform in shape, making a good shipper, and would attract great attention in any of the New York markets. We take pleasure in forwarding you another order for more of Van Namen's Excelsior Mammoth Cauliflower."
